Psychiatrists now, more than ever, are treating patients across the lifespan for a variety of psychiatric conditions and disorders. This conference is designed to emphasize that necessary breadth of practice. Join us to learn about the exciting field of first break psychosis, as well as topics surrounding tardive dyskinesia, geriatric psychiatry and child psychiatry. Our extended session regarding first break psychosis will include lecture and panel discussion using a case-based format as we look at how psychosis can initially present and how we evaluate and treat this condition caused by multiple etiologies. Our treatments often come with side effects, and so we will also hear about management of tardive dyskinesia from an expert in the field. Our afternoon will span both extremes of the lifespan, starting with a presentation regarding the psychiatric and behavioral management of dementia, and concluding with a child psychiatry update in behavioral management from our incoming IPPS President.
